Standards based fully interoperable

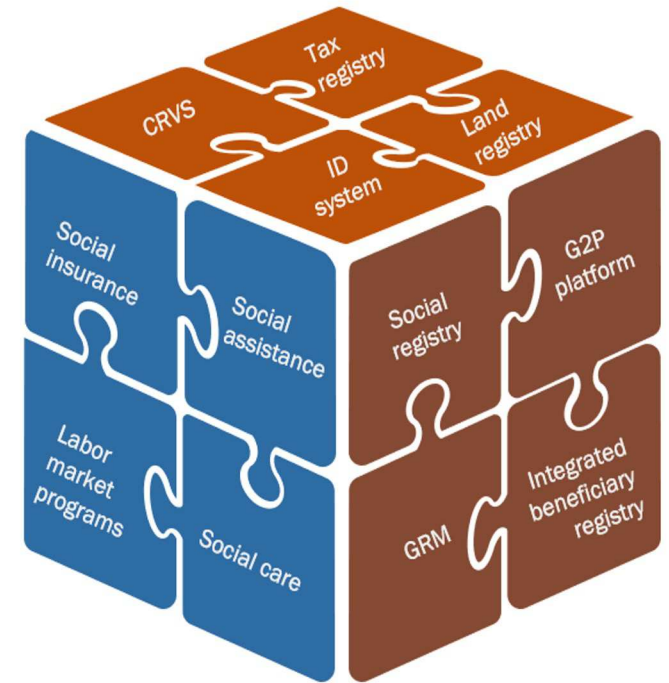

The Digital Convergence Initiative (DCI)

A joint effort by USP2030 members and non-members, governments, development partners and private sector towards creating a harmonized and interoperable digital ecosystem for social protection

Building consensus-based standards for interoperability to

- foster an ecosystem for innovation by ICT solution providers to build products that are interoperable, easy to use, integrate, maintain and scale
- reduce time and costs of developing solutions at the country/program level
- enable programs and countries to mix and match different components from different suppliers
- ensure that systems are future-proof by design, regardless of current levels of policy and information systems maturity

Approach

Talking Interoperability webinars

- Learning from countries through deep dive technical interoperability discussions
- 10 country systems showcased

Partnership with solution providers - proprietary and open Source software (OSS)

- HERA, OpenCRVS
- Study and deployment of OSS in DCI sandbox

Interoperability in Action workshops

- Demonstrating live use cases
- Hearing community voices from country, international organizations, solution providers and experts

Global Standards

- Standard Committee with experts from diverse organizations to review the draft
- Public review
- DCI and USP steering group review
- Endorsement by USP2030 assembly

Digital Convergence USP2030

The Digital Convergence Initiative (DCI) is a collaborative initiative by USP2030 members, governments, development partners, civil society organizations, and private companies to build a global consensus on standards and guidelines for social protection information systems.

Initiated in 2021, the initiative aims to build a global consensus on technological standards and guidelines for digital systems that enable the seamless flow of data between programs and institutions, which are essential to the delivery of social protection. It believes that standardized data sharing can improve the effectiveness of social protection programs and, ultimately, enhance their outcomes. The DCI is an open, transparent, and virtual community that encourages contributions from a wide range of stakeholders.
